

Edition #46

KYC in Crypto: The Real Reason

Basically, anyone providing financial services has to know exactly who they're providing them to in real-time. This is the need for KYC.

Find out more

Ghana Post Company Introduces Crypto Stamp

Ghana Post Company recently unveiled a groundbreaking "crypto stamp" to mark the 25th anniversary of Otumfuo Osei Tutu II's ascension as the Asantehene.

Find out more

Taiwan: regulation to prevent crypto frauds

The Executive Yuan, Taiwan's executive branch, introduces a new regulation to strengthen the crackdown on fraud and regulate money laundering.

Find out more

The European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA) is currently consulting with industry experts on the feasibility of integrating cryptocurrencies into the Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities (UCITS) funds, a move that could open up a vast 12 trillion euro investment market to digital assets.

Find out more

Former U.S. President Donald Trump has announced his intention to accept cryptocurrency contributions for his 2024 presidential campaign, marking a significant shift in campaign fundraising strategies and political engagement with digital assets. He assured his audience of his commitment to integrating cryptocurrency into his campaign finance operations.

Find out more

VELO has emerged as a standout performer, reaching a nearly two-year high at $0.02861, marking a remarkable 13-month peak. Dubbed the "XRP of South East Asia," VELO has been capturing the attention of crypto traders with its meteoric rise, surging by 113% in just a month.

Find out more

Launched in August last year, the Stand with Crypto Alliance is a non-profit organization on a mission to champion clear, "common-sense' regulation in the U.S. crypto industry. The group has 164,507 policymaker contacts and has donated over $86 million so far.

Find out more

Artificial Intelligence (AI) has undoubtedly changed the way we look at our world. Today, AI machines are performing surgeries, predicting the weather, running banks, assisting farmers, and writing bad poetry. As per the latest reports, global IT spending is set to hit $5 trillion by the end of 2024 which is an 8% increase from the previous quarter.

Find out more

Adobe has tailored its Firefly AI and Lightroom apps for the new mixed-reality headset, enhancing creative workflows with intuitive, immersive interfaces. Victoria VR is set to launch a crypto-powered metaverse app, leveraging ultra-realistic graphics and interactive gameplay to redefine digital engagement and monetization in virtual environments.

Find out more

Genesis Digital Assets Limited (GDA), a leading force in the global Bitcoin mining sector, has partnered with YPF Luz, a subsidiary of Argentina's state-owned energy company YPF. Together, both partners have established a new Bitcoin mining facility that capitalizes on an innovative energy resource: stranded gas from oil fields.

Find out more

Delta Exchange is a crypto derivatives exchange that lets traders trade in innovative products such as futures, options, interest rate swaps, etc., with up to 100x leverage. Futures contracts are one of the most popular derivatives traded on the exchange. The price of a futures contract moves broadly in sync with the price of the underlying cryptocurrency.

Find out more