

Avoid Deep Fake Crypto Scams

Crypto scams are becoming increasingly sophisticated. Deep fakes of Ripple CEO are being used to try and trick people out of money.

Find out more

New Legislation Limits SEC Jurisdiction Over Crypto

The FIT21 Act aims to provide much-needed regulatory clarity for cryptocurrencies, a sector plagued by uncertainty that has hampered innovation and consumer protection.

Find out more

Donald Trump: Bitcoin's Biggest Price Booster

As the cryptocurrency marketplace expands, traders are more exposed to the numerous safety lapses inherent in the digital assets landscape.

Find out more

Trump is using campaign donations to pay mounting legal expenses. Mark Cuban, billionaire and minority owner of the Dallas Mavericks, argued on May 10 that regulators' tough stance on the crypto industry isn't doing President Joe Biden any favors in the forthcoming election. I think that we are seeing a shift on US politicians opinion for cryptocurrency regulation.

Find out more

While the promise of decentralized gaming and true digital ownership holds immense potential, the industry's current focus on browser-based PC gaming represents a glaring missed opportunity—one that threatens to relegate it to the periphery of the gaming world as the mobile gaming juggernaut continues its inexorable rise.

Find out more

Restaking is a process in the world of crypto and blockchain technology that involves restaking previously deposited assets, on a different platform or program. When you stake your assets, you basically lock them for supporting security and functionality of a blockchain network.

Find out more

The national stablecoin of the Philippines is pegged 1:1 to the local peso and will undergo supervised trials by the central bank. In collaboration with cryptocurrency wallet provider Coins.ph, the central bank authorized a stablecoin pilot program, which is backed by the Philippine peso.

Find out more

Decentralized Autonomous Organizations (DAOs) are a concept that is getting much attention in decentralized finance (DeFi). These entities represent a new organizational structure, governance, and decision-making paradigm, leveraging blockchain technology to create decentralized, self-governing communities.

Find out more

Blockchain technology is gaining popularity in the world of finance and digital transactions. Its main feature is the ability to provide a decentralized platform for secure transactions. However, not all blockchains are the same. There exist two main types of blockchains: permissioned and permissionless.

Find out more

The UK elections scheduled to happen later this year, are expected to maintain currents in the crypto sector. Industry stakeholders and Government officials have made statements on the UK's approach to crypto. The Labour party is expected to introduce a tokenized regime in the event of winning.

Find out more

The internet is on the cusp of a revolution. Web 3.0, also known as web3, promises to break the stranglehold of big tech and empower users with control over their data and online experiences. Unlike Web 2.0, dominated by centralized platforms like Facebook and Google, web3 prioritizes decentralization. No more relying on tech giants.

Find out more