

North Carolina Passes Bill to Enforce CBDC Ban

North Carolina Senate overrides Governor's veto to pass Fed CBDC ban bill. This state is moving toward a CBDC ban, akin to Florida's legislation.

Find out more

Understanding and Avoiding Crypto Scams

Cryptocurrency has gained massive popularity, attracting not only investors but also scammers. The decentralised nature of crypto have created opportunities for fraudsters.

Find out more

UK bill to recognize crypto as personal property

According to an official government notice, the British Parliament received a proposal to recognize digital assets as personal property under English law.

Find out more

Ford and Toyota continue to push boundaries in blockchain-based automotive technology, leading the way with significant patent filings in 2024. According to recent data from GlobalData Patent Analytics and Just Auto, both automakers ramped up their blockchain-related efforts in Q2, positioning themselves as pioneers in this emerging field.

Find out more

AgentLayer is an innovative platform that increases the security and functionality of financial applications through advanced AI and blockchain integration. At its core, the platform's AgentOS enables secure data management, multi-agent collaboration, and seamless communication, ensuring that financial operations are both efficient and protected.

Find out more

OpenSea and a16z pledge $6 million to NFT Creators Legal Defense Fund. The Digital Chamber wants lawmakers to classify NFTs as consumer goods. OpenSea launches an NFT collection to commemorate its pledge to the fund.

Find out more

Decentralized cloud is Web3's take on computer hardware. Instead of being in the hands of a few giant corporations, hardware is controlled by many providers. This ensures that no single provider has control over the network.

Find out more

Bhutan, the world's 90th largest economy, owns 13,011 Bitcoin (BTC), worth $780.5 million, as revealed by the on-chain analytics firm Arkham Intelligence. The Bhutan Government's Bitcoin holding and the disclosure of its address are now gaining significant attention from the crypto community across the globe.

Find out more

Crypto trading promises huge returns (and has been so in the past couple of years), but very few traders actually make sustainable profits. According to unverified reports, over 90% of crypto day traders lose money despite the market continuously witnessing mega gains. Are there solutions that can improve the win rate for crypto traders?

Find out more

Deepfakes—hyper-realistic yet false digital creations—pose a growing threat across the internet. These deceptive videos and images can erode public trust, spread misinformation, and cause personal and financial harm. As this menace expands, NFTs and blockchain technology are tools to counter deepfakes by ensuring the authenticity of digital content.

Find out more

The Proof of Workforce Foundation (POWF) and Careers In Government Inc. (CIG) have launched a strategic partnership aimed at integrating Bitcoin into public sector employment practices, according to a press release sent to Bitcoin Magazine. This collaboration seeks to enhance financial security, attract talent, and foster innovation.

Find out more