

Cambodia Blocks 16 Crypto Exchanges

Cambodian authorities have blocked 16 cryptocurrency exchange websites operating without proper licenses. These measures are efforts to safeguard investors.

Find out more

Vladimir Putin: Bitcoin can't be stopped

Russian President Vladimir Putin reiterated support for Bitcoin and digital assets as the European powerhouse approached greater crypto adoption.

Find out more

Ethiopia's Bitcoin mining surge to global 2.5%

"Bitcoin miners in Ethiopia now command 2.5% of the global hash-rate. If trends continue, according to Ethiopian Electric Power (EEP), this will more than double within one year." This is the power of Bitcoin.

Find out more

The president-elect further reiterated his support for the crypto industry in the post, stating that he and the community will "make America great again." Notably, Bitcoin surged past $100,000 after Trump's pro-crypto nomination of Patomak Global CEO Paul Atkins as the SEC chair. I expect a bright future, for crypto in the U.S.A.

Find out more

The Czech Parliament has voted in favor of a proposed amendment that exempts capital gains from the sale of Bitcoin and other crypto assets from personal income tax, as shared by prominent financial analyst and entrepreneur Kristian Csepcesar. Under the new policy, individuals will not be required to pay capital gains tax on profits from Bitcoin.

Find out more

Dennis Porter, the CEO and co-founder of Satoshi Action Fund, has revealed that numerous legislators are considering implementing a strategic Bitcoin reserve. The SAF has confirmed that up to 11 states in the US and two nation-states are preparing for a strategic Bitcoin reserve.

Find out more

Now, the world is entering the era of Web3, a decentralized revolution powered by blockchain technology. This shift focuses on user ownership, peer-to-peer interactions, and unparalleled transparency. Web3 isn't just a trend; it's the internet's future for forward-thinking professionals.

Find out more

The Wyoming Stable Token Commission has issued public Requests for Qualification to attract talent for its stablecoin initiative, known as "Project WYST." The Wyoming Stable Token Act, passed in 2023, authorized the state to issue stablecoins. WYST is designed to represent and be redeemable for one U.S. dollar held in trust by the state.

Find out more

CoinDCX's BitOasis has been granted a full virtual asset service provider license from Dubai virtual asset regulators, two years after it secured an operating permit. Receiving a full VASP license marks the final step for BitOasis' VARA licensing process to ensure that it complies with all the necessary requirements laid out by Dubai regulators.

Find out more

Iran is changing its approach to cryptocurrencies, focusing on regulation instead of bans, says Minister Abdolnaser Hemmati. Speaking at an event in Tehran, he shared the government's plans to manage digital currencies through the Central Bank of Iran. The goal is to reduce risks, create jobs for young people, and strengthen the economy.

Find out more

The board directors of Argentina's securities regulator, Comisión Nacional de Valores (CNV), announced that the U.S. exchange-traded fund (ETF), including crypto-related ETFs, are now available in the country. Under CEDEAR's program, which is regulated by RG No. 1030, Bitcoin spot ETF and Ethereum spot ETF will be released and ready to trade.

Find out more